

Florence Nightingale's Life

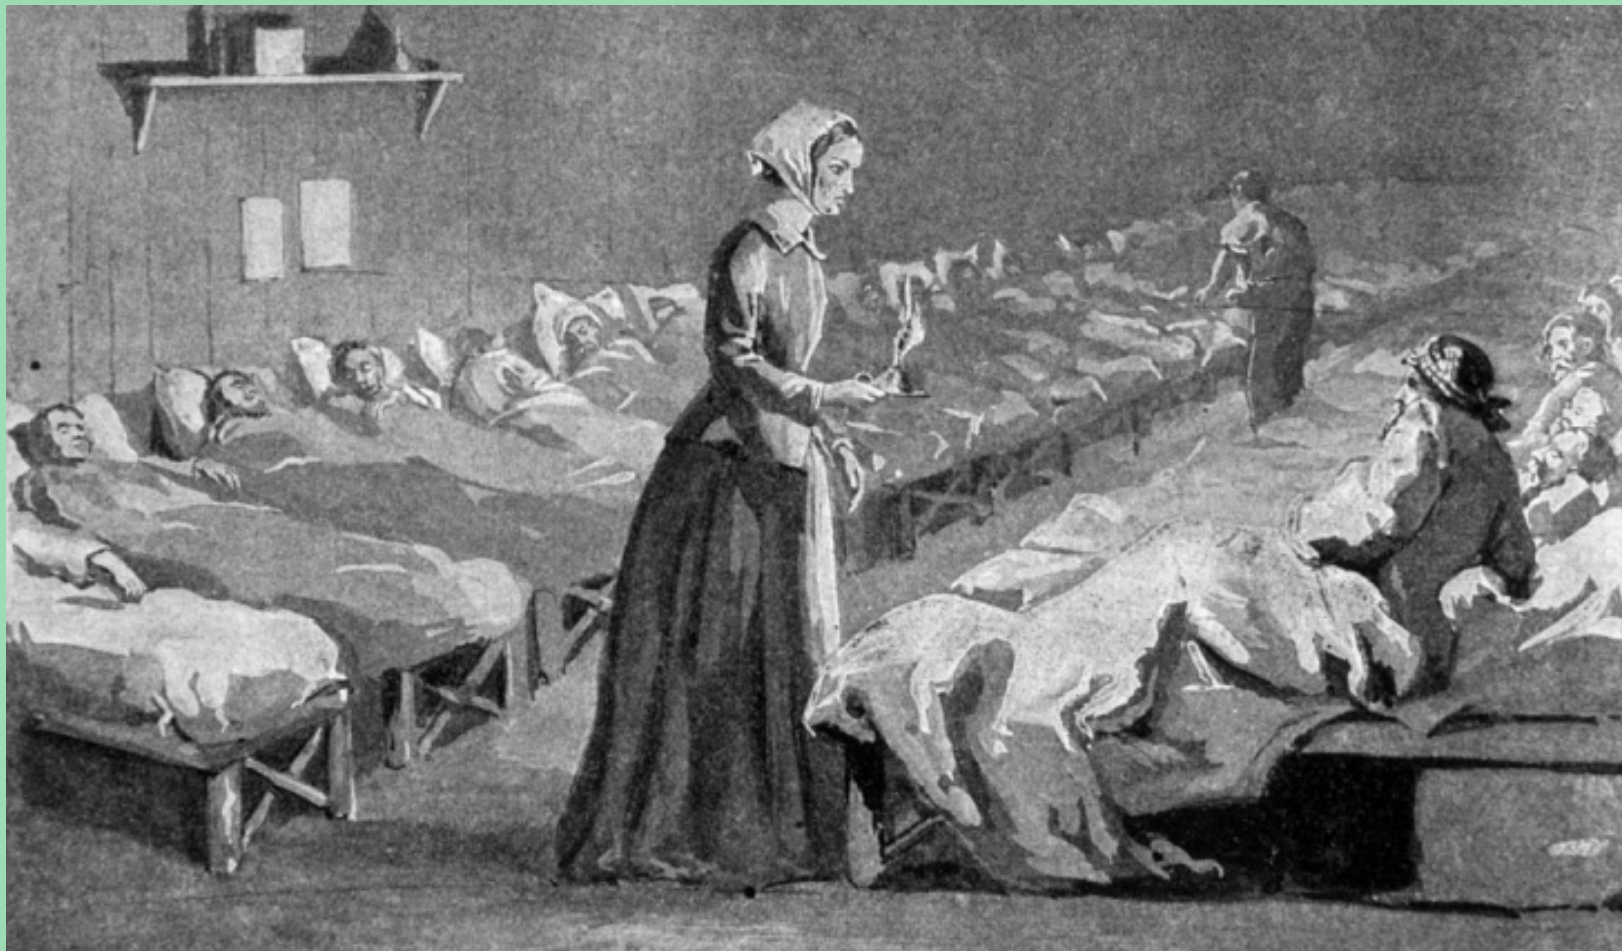

By Connor and Summer

Florence Nightingale love books when she was growing up and loved to read.

Florence Nightingale went to Scutari in Turkey to help the injured soldiers. She was so angry at how dirty it was. She wanted to help the soldiers and make it better for them. She gave them clean beds, clothes and food to eat. Lots of soldiers got better quickly and didn't die.

Florence Nightingale got given many awards for her brilliant work as a nurse. She was awarded the Red Cross and the Order of Merit. In her later life she wrote a book called notes on nursing. This book is still used today. She died in 1910 when she was 90 years old.

Florence was born in 1820 and she lived with her mum and dad. They wanted her to get married but Florence said no way and wanted to be a nurse. She went to Germany in 1845 to learn how to be a nurse.
